CONFIGURATION SYSTEM AND METHODS

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

5   Aspects of the invention provide for creating, operating and updating product configurators. A configuration creation embodiment includes receiving data corresponding to product or service options, identifying a solution space corresponding to the data, setting rules for evaluating constraint relationships of the data and for navigating the solution space, and generating cross-domain logical response engines corresponding

10   to a navigation of the solution space.